

Is it better to buy from the Internet?

- Genuine product

Most U.S. manufacturers of pet medications do not sell to big box retailers and on-line pharmacies. The purchase you make could contain products from different countries that are not made to the safest standards for your pet.

- Manufacturer warranty

Most manufacturers will not honor warranties on products not purchased directly from a licensed veterinary clinic. Therefore, in the unfortunate event that your pet has a side effect or lack of efficacy, you would not have a case for the manufacturer to cover any extra cost for the care of your pet.

- Product rebates & free doses

Manufacturers do not honor rebates or give free doses for products purchased from on-line pharmacies or big box retailers.

- Price plus shipping

Price sometimes seems cheaper on-line, but by the time you have paid for shipping/handling, and factor in the rebates that are given on most products, you are usually better off purchasing in the veterinary clinic

- Support of local community

When you purchase from your local Veterinarian vs. an on-line store, you are supporting your local community and helping to keep prices low on other products and services for your pet's health.
